JOSÉ ANDRÉS

Our wine list features the best offerings from Greece and the Levant, the same regions that inspire our food. You will notice some varietals unique to these regions, and less well-known in the U.S., as well as some well-known international varietals. To encourage you to try a grape with which you might be less familiar, each section includes a brief overview of the general characteristics of the grape, the region, or the producer.

We have also included a selection of wines from other areas of the Mediterranean, the shores of which have been interconnected throughout history, to allow you to explore a different region with each visit to our restaurant.

Enjoy your wine!

WINES BY THE GLASS

A variety of primarily Eastern Mediterranean wines have been carefully selected for your enjoyment by the glass. Please ask your server about them!

WHITE WINES OF GREECE

AIDANI – An ancient Greek grape mainly found in the Cyclades islands, it produces wines that are pleasantly aromatic with a floral bouquet that is reminiscent of jasmine.

Aidani, Argyros, Santorini '10 67

ASSYRTIKO – Arguably Greece's most celebrated white grape. Grown primarily in the volcanic soils of the island of Santorini, this grape produces wine with earthy, mineral notes usually accompanied by flinty and citrus characteristics.

Assyrtiko, Gaia Estate, Santorini '10 54

Assyrtiko, Argyros, Santorini '09 65

Assyrtiko, Sigalas, Santorini '10 67

Assyrtiko/Athiri, Sigalas, Santorini '09 54

Assyrtiko/Athiri/Aidani, Argyros Atlantis, Santorini '10 36

Assyrtiko/Malagouzia/Athiri, Argatia, Macedonia '10 60

KATSANO/GAIDOURIA – Both grape varieties are little known outside the island of Santorini, as they only cover 1% of the total vineyard. The production of these wines is strictly limited.

Katsano/Gaidouria, Gavalas Katsano, Santorini '08 51

MOSCHOFILERO – This grey-skinned grape from the Mantinia region of Greece produces wines that are quite complex, with dynamic, floral notes such as honeysuckle, violet, and rose.

Moschofilero, Kotrotso Erasmios, Patras, '10 26

Moschofilero, Boutari, Mantinia '10 36

Moschofilero/Roditis, Cellars Nikiforou, Mantinia '10 35

MUSCAT – Muscat of Alexandria has dominated the island of Lemnos providing table as well as winemaking grapes for many centuries. These dry examples of Muscat wines are delightful, fresh and very easy to drink.

Muscat, Petros Honas Phelonoe, Lemnos, '10 32

ROBOLA – This grape flourishes in soils that are dry and rocky. Wines are characterized by a lemony palate mingled with hints of smoke, and long, mineral finishes.

Robola, Gentillini, Cephalonia '09 47

RODITIS – From the Peloponnese region of Greece, this grape produces light, crisp wines with greener characteristics such as almonds and mint.

Roditis/Viognier,
Domaine Mecouri Foloi, Peloponnese, '10 40

SAVATIANO – Greece's most widely-planted white variety. The grapes have inherently low acidity and an aroma of orange blossom and summer hay.

Savatiano, Muses Estate, Thebes '10 32

OTHER WHITE GRAPE VARIETALS – Foreign white varieties were introduced to Greece in the 1960s. The following handful of imported varieties are either blended with Greek cultivars or bottled as varietals.

Chardonnay, Fragou, Peloponnese, '10 35

Sauvignon Blanc/Semillion/Assyrtiko,
Domaine K. Lazaridi, Amethystos, Drama, '10 44

Viognier, Skouras, Argos '09 55

RETSINA – Exported from Greece for more than 2,000 years, its unique flavor is said to have originated from the ancient practice of sealing wine vessels, particularly amphorae, with pine resin.

Retsina, Gaia Estate Ritinitis Nobilis, Nemea, Greece, NV 36

Retsina, Kechri Kechribari, Thessaloniki, Greece, NV 32

RED WINES OF GREECE

AGIORGITIKO – This grape produces medium to full-bodied wines with intense red and black fruit notes with a palate that may be a cross between a Cab Franc and a Merlot. Very suitable for both young and cask-aged wines.

Agiorgitiko, Skouras Saint George, Nemea '08 36

Agiorgitiko, Aivalis, Nemea '09 67

Agiorgitiko, Mitravelas Estate, Nemea '06 67

Agiorgitiko, Gaia Estate Estate Selection, Nemea '06 89

LIMNIO – With ancient origin from the island of Lemnos and mentioned in Greek mythology, this grape produces some lean and herbaceous wines of considerable body.

Limnio, Porto Carras, Halkidiki '10 45

Limnio/Cabernet Sauvignon, Tsantali Metoxi, Mt. Athos '07 99

MANDILARIA – Originally used to increase the color of lighter wines, this grape produces wines that are bold and chewy with remarkable tannins.

Mandilaria/Mavrotragano, Argyros Atlantis, Santorini, '08 40

Mandilaria/Syrah, Diamantakis Diamond Rock, Crete '09 60

MAVRODAPHNE – Translated as “black laurel,” this grape is originally from Cephalonia and produces wines that are rich in anthocyanins and total phenols, producing a dark purple color.

Mavrodaphne, Gentilini Eclipse, Cephalonia '09 49

XINOMAVRO – Literally translated as “acid black”. The Xinomavro can produce age-worthy reds with firm tannins and great complexity. The best examples have been often compared to the renowned wines of Burgundy and Piedmont.

Xinomavro, Kir-Yianni Ramnista, Naoussa '08 48

Xinomavro, Uranos, Naoussa '08 62

Xinomavro, Domaine Karydas, Naoussa '07 68

Xinomavro, Alpha Estate, Amydeon '06 93

Xinomavro/Merlot/Syrah, Kir-Yianni, Paranga '08 40

MAGNA GRAECIA AND BEYOND

In the eighth and seventh centuries BC, the Greeks began settling in southern Italy for various reasons, including famine, overcrowding, the search for new commercial outlets/ports and expulsion from their homeland. The Romans called the area of Sicily and the foot of the boot of Italy, Magna Graecia (Latin translation, "Greater Greece"), since it was so densely inhabited by the Greeks. With this colonization, Greek culture was brought to Italy including Greek varietals, cultivation techniques, and wine trading throughout the Mediterranean region.
